

KOORYONG

Kooyong Estate Chardonnay 2018 – Reviews

WBM, July/August 2020

A blend of Kooyong's Faultline and Farrago blocks, this is a vintage that delivers body and presence with tension and energy. All the richness of fig and white peach streams out into a long and focused tail, illuminated by crystalline minerality and a flash of brilliant acidity.

Medium-bodied, with intense grapefruit and white peach flavour knit with creamy matchstick, vanilla oak. It's long and elegant, with smooth, juicy core of fruit wrapped in a gentle acidity.

Smokey barrel, lightly reductive aromas, attractively complex with hints of nougat. It's light bodied and ready to enjoy, with lemon and grapefruit flavours.

Mornington Peninsula Chardonnay. You can bank on it. Straight down the line. Stonefruit, ginger, a clip of sweet/spicy oak, flecks of funk and flint. It delivers what you came for and then offers a fraction more. Texture, flavour and just enough interest.
