

Port Phillip Estate Red Hill Pinot Noir 2019 – Reviews

The Halliday Australian Wine Companion 2022, August 2021

Jane Faulkner

A pretty pinot with drinkability writ large. Offers the right combination of florals, spice, fruit and savouriness. Its satiny texture and almost delicate tannins all adding to the immediate appeal, yet there's enough substance for this to last some distance.

Loads of black cherry and plummy blackberry aromas with a slightly truffle-like edge. Seductive, smooth and alluring through the medium boiled palate. Dry cheeky tannins pucker up the finish.
