

Quartier Pinot Gris 2024 – Reviews

Wine of the Week, January 2025

Winsor Dobbin

Quintessential fun Summer white wine from the Gjergia family and winemaker Tim Perrin, who produce some stellar Mornington Peninsula wines under the Kooyong and Port Phillip Estate labels, and some terrific drops for everyday drinking under the Quartier label, which uses grower rather than Estate fruit. This new release is a ripper; with tangy freshness and vibrancy perhaps more akin to grigio than gris styles, and a very food friendly personality with citrus and stone fruit flavours front and centre. Very good drinking for $30.

The WineFront, February 2025

Gary Walsh

Green pear, a bit of musk stick and spice. It's juicy with green apple and pear flavours, lemon zest and some grainy grip, a little quinine bite and bitterness, raw almond, with a lively finish of good length.

90 points

The Real Review, May 2025

Stuart Knox

Very pale lemon yellow colour. Pear skin and gardenia aromas. Light bodied, with a vibrant pear and apple fruit that is accentuated by a lemon zest lift. Good length, the acidity remains vibrant to the finish where a drying fuzzy grip adds character. A lovely drink.

91 points